Wrappings of the Wind

These thin leather straps are of the variety used to wrap around the handles of weapons to aid in gripping them. These will magically lengthen or shorten to accommodate any weapon of up to Medium size with a handle or haft. When used on a weapon that normally cannot be thrown, the weapon can now be thrown with a 10' range increment. If used on a weapon that can be thrown, the item gains the Returning property as detailed in the Pathfinder Core Rulebook.

Kethlo's Blindfold

(eyes)

Kethlo was a human rogue who was rendered blind by a spraying acid trap that she failed to disarm. She commissioned a wizard to create a blindfold that would help her compensate for her disability. The item allowed her to go on to become one of Kartalan's (the capital city of Myr) most famous cat burglars. This blindfold is black with embroidered silver runes. When bound tight across the eyes, the wearer's normal vision is replaced with Darkvision to a range of 30'. Note that the wearer loses the ability to distinguish colors while the item is worn.

Amulet of Small Favors

(neck)

When the wearer of this amulet is dealt damage dropping her hit points to below one, the amulet automatically stabilizes her as per the stabilize spell. This happens immediately after the damage is dealt and happens each time the wearer takes damage. While this will not prevent the wearer from going down after taking multiple hits, it will allow her to stabilize automatically after being driven below 0 hit points. Mark off charges below. There are 24 charges remaining.

Pearl of Power (1st level spells)

This seemingly normal pearl of average size and luster is a potent aid to all spellcasters who prepare spells (clerics, druids, rangers, paladins, and wizards). Once per day on command, a pearl of power enables the possessor to recall any one 1st level spell that she had prepared and then cast. The spell is then prepared again, just as if it hadn't been cast.
